

DoDEA - Americas (comprised of DDESS/DoDDS Cuba)

Inspiring & preparing our students for success in a global environment.

Area Overview

DoDEA-Americas, headquartered in Peachtree City, Ga., is composed of five districts, with 63 schools located on 16 military installations in the United States, Puerto Rico, and Cuba. DoDEA-Americas employs approximately 4,100 people, and more than 26,000 students attend the Area's schools.

Since the days of Army frontier posts, U.S. military installations have established their own schools when adequate public education was not available in the local area. The first of these schools was West Point Elementary School, established prior to 1816 and authorized by Congress in 1921 to serve the children of personnel residing on the West Point Military Reservation who serve the United States Military Academy. West Point Elementary and West Point Middle schools still thrive on the scenic Hudson River.

To be eligible to attend the DoDEA-Americas schools, parents and guardians must be either active duty military or full-time permanent Department of Defense (DoD) civilians and must reside in permanent installation housing. Each of our districts follows the local education activity's (LEA's) calendars as closely as possible allowing siblings, who may attend other schools off the installation, to enjoy the same holidays. School administrators, counselors and teachers provide invaluable support to students during times of multiple deployments and subsequent reintegration.

From West Point Military Academy located approximately 50 miles north of New York City to the rolling hills of horse country surrounding Fort Knox and Fort Campbell, to the milder climates of the Southeast, DoDEA-Americas schools provide ready-made classrooms for field trips and student enrichment. The areas are steeped in history, from the Revolutionary War through the Civil War and the present, with museums, churches, monuments and plantation homes all brimming with good old Southern hospitality.

Dr. Bruce Jeter, Acting Director of DoDEA - Americas

Dr. Jeter joined DoDEA in 1992 as an assistant principal at Irwin Middle School, Fort Bragg, N.C. He went on to become principal at several of DoDEA's stateside schools, an assistant superintendent, and as an acting superintendent. In 2000, Dr. Jeter was selected as the superintendent of DoDEA Pacific's Korea District and in 2004 was named as the superintendent of DoDEA America's New York/Virginia/Puerto Rico and Cuba District. He became the Deputy Director of DoDEA's schools in America in 2007.

Area Highlights

Robins Air Force Base Elementary School in Warner Robins, Ga., closed at the end of School Year 2008-2009 because of decreasing enrollments. Students were transferred to Linwood School in the Houston County School System.

The Fort Knox High School Construction Project, an $18 million initiative authorized by Congress in Fiscal Year 2007, was completed and will be ready for student occupancy in School Year 2009-2010. The project features a new 96,000 square foot facility; renovation of 7,600 square feet of existing space; new parking; entry control signage, improved access to parking and exterior areas for persons with disabilities; and a new bus drop-off area. The new high school houses all functions (with the exception of the performing arts center) under one roof, eliminates multiple access points, and improves building security.

A new gymnasium and music room at Delalio Elementary School, Marine Corps Base, Camp Lejeune, N.C., will be ready for occupancy in School Year 2009-2010. The $2 million project, funded by Congress in Fiscal Year 2008 features an 8,300 square foot facility that replaces portable classrooms.
